We are a small family run business (just my wife and I run this business).

We discovered Colloidal Silver about two years ago and have been fascinated by it ever since. After seeing its amazing qualities, we decided to purchase our own equipment and started producing our own quality Colloidal Silver.

Word soon got around and we were supplying it to family and friends shortly afterwards.

We wanted more and more people to know about this amazing product and decided to site up our own website to go along side our main Natural Remedies 4U. We also listed Colloidal Silver in our Ebay Shop, however we are no longer allowed to do that.

Our aim was to provide Colloidal Silver of great quality at a price people could afford. We thought prices for Colloidal Silver were simply far too expensive and people were making great profits from it.

In special cases, we have even given large amounts of Colloidal Silver away for free to help those who are particularly in need of it.

We have now decided to move to this content management site where we can list more information about Colloidal Silver, maybe have a discussion or two on the controversies surrounding it.

If you would like to contribute to this site, please contact us. We would love to hear from you.
