We are now in the process of entering the second phase of our webstore.

We are sorry for the delay, and realise that our customers have had to put up with very few items, and poor layout in our store.

We hope that this is about to change, but please still bear with us.

We will also shortly be adding many more great products to this site.

The change was something I had planned to do last year, but never got round to it. <BR><BR>

Suddenly being told we weren't allowed to sell Colloidal Silver on Ebay suddenly pushed the project to the front of my mind. Not just because of the income we would be losing, but more the fact that we need to defend the right to use Colloidal Silver in our daily lives.<BR><BR>

Feel free to purchase what's available on this site. I do have more sizes of Colloidal Silver available. I've set the stock levels quite low, simply due to the fact that I do not have many boxes left to ship it in.<BR><BR>

As you can see from the categories, I hope to be listing some of our other products on here soon. So you will be able to purchase health products from us at a cheaper price than on Ebay, simply because of the massive fees they charge us.<BR><BR>

Please let me know of any problems with the shopping cart. It is in it's early stages, but should be fine.<BR>

Please note that you will only be able to purchase via this site if you are from the UK. This may change in the future, but the shipping charges are so complicated, that I decided to include shipping in with the price of the product. <BR><BR>

If you are from another country and would like to purchase, simply email me for a postage quote and I will invoice you via Paypal.
